

A wide-angle photograph of the interior of the Old Bailey, a historic court building in London. The room is grand and ornate, featuring a high, vaulted ceiling with a large circular skylight. The walls are covered in marble and decorated with intricate carvings and statues. The floor is made of black and white checkered tiles, with a large circular pattern in the foreground. The lighting is warm and golden, highlighting the architectural details.

CREATE ~ INSIDE STORIES AT THE OLD BAILEY

Unleashing creativity ignites imaginations, develops confidence and builds relationships. It has the power to turn lives around and inspire change. Inside Stories at the Old Bailey will raise funds and awareness of Create's vital work connecting offenders in prison with their children.

The evening will feature a unique opportunity to hear Create Patron, journalist and writer Erwin James give a speech from the dock of Courtroom One, where he was sentenced to life imprisonment 32 years ago; a tour of the world-famous courthouse; and a reading of stories written during Inside Stories, Create's storybook project with fathers in prison.

"I think my family feel proud of me for doing this. I've shown my partner, children and parents that I am thinking about them, being productive with my time, becoming a good man." Young offender

We hope you will join us for this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, hosted by Sheriff of the City of London, Peter Estlin and His Honour Judge Topolski QC.
